

GANG FESTIVAL 2008 QUICK FACTS

Description:

Gang Festival is an artist-run festival and creative exchange program showcasing the work of autonomous and collaborative arts communities in Australia and Indonesia.

Gang is the Indonesian word for alleyway (pronounced ‘Gung’), alluding to the underground art scene and the importance of community. The festival also draws on the English meaning of the word, with cross-cultural collaboration between large groups of art workers on the margins of the commercial art world.

This year Gang has partnered with Tanam untuk Kehidupan TUK (Planting for Life), a dynamic environmental arts collective from Salatiga, Central Java. Over October and November last year, four gang artists travelled to Salatiga to participate in their signature event Festival Mata Air.

On January 19 Gang will produce its own Festival Day in Peace Park Chippendale and the surrounding laneways. This year it has been named ‘Art Day is Today’ which is the English translation of Hari Ini Adalah Hari Seni, a collaboration between Gang and Padang art collective Belanak.

On the festival day, Sydney based artists will perform alongside visiting Gang artists: TwinSista, a female MC from East Java and Kuno Kini, a percussion ensemble from Jakarta. Other performers will be found loitering and roaming throughout the ‘gangs’ of Chippendale, along with an exhibition of installation art works. Families are encouraged to bring a picnic and take part in children’s games, and art workshops. There is also an opportunity to browse the makers market and zine fair for handmade and recycled treasures.

What's unique about Gang?

- An Australian/Indonesian artists exchange program run by the artists themselves
- Showcasing the emerging landscape of artist-run spaces in Chippendale/Surry Hills
- Building connections between grass-roots cultural organisations in Australia and Indonesia
- Exhibiting and performing works by a range of independent Indonesian artists and groups for the first time in Australia

ART DAY IS TODAY: KAMPUNG FESTIVAL 08

Peace Park and surrounding laneways, Pine Street, Chippendale

January 19, 2008, 3pm-8pm

Gang hopes to grow from the success of the 2006 Kampung Festival, held in Peace Park in Chippendale, to present collaborative artworks and performances. The Kampung Street Festival is about laneways and marginalised sites; it's also about public space and the insertion and creation of art into the everyday - a re-igniting of civic spaces with creative expression. 'Art Day Is Today' will feature a makers' market, zine fair, art in the laneways, games, and a number of site specific performances.
